

Student Health and Wellbeing

How can healthcare services and universities work together with students to improve their mental health and wellbeing preventing undergraduate suicide in the South West

Mental Health Service Organisation

Discussion points

- Is student health and wellbeing important to the South West.
- Are there aspects of student life that increase vulnerability.
- Are students a population group that might benefit from targeted approaches to health and wellbeing.
- Does the organisation of health care services discriminate against students.
- Are there approaches to monitoring student wellbeing that might improve outcomes.
- What are the essential partnerships and actions that would achieve improved outcomes.